

ENGAGE-ASIA PROGRAMME 2023

Building Worker Power in the 21st Century:

Training for Labour Activists in Asia

Announcement and Call for Applications

We are pleased to announce the first offering of the ENGAGE-Asia Programme in June to July 2023. The programme aims to equip trade unionists and labour activists with critical knowledge and tools that would enable them to take an active part in public debate and in policy formulation and implementation in the field of labour and employment, development, wages and productivity, climate justice and just transition, as well as developments and changes in the world of work. The programme is jointly developed by the Global Labour University (GLU) and the School of Labor and Industrial Relations at the University of the Philippines (UP SOLAIR), with the support of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung (FES).

ENGAGE-Asia is a two-month, non-degree and blended Certificate Course programme that is comprised of two phases: an online phase and a residential/in-person phase. The online phase which will run from 5 to 22 June 2023 involves the completion of selected GLU Massive Online Open Courses (MOOCs) and selected chapters of the FES-web-based Trade Unions in Transformation Toolkit. The residential/in-person phase which will take place from 28 June until 25 July 2023 at the UP SOLAIR (in Diliman, Quezon City, Philippines) is made up of six modules which constitute the programme's core courses:

Module 1: Global governance and the role of labour

Module 2: Labour and development

Module 3: Global and national wage policy and finance

Module 4: Changes in the world of work and the transformation of trade unions

Module 5: Trade union capacity building

Module 6: Group research project

For the in-person phase, participants are expected to arrive in the Philippines on 27 June 2023. The first session starts in the morning of 28 June. Sessions are to be held from Monday to Friday, from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm. There are approximately 15 in-person sessions and five days of field work for the group research project. Graduation is scheduled on 25 July 2023, therefore return flights should be booked on 26 July 2023. The detailed schedule and curriculum of the in-person course programme will be provided later to the successful applicants.

Please note that these dates (June/July 2023) are subject to future Covid-19 restrictions and regulations.

Course lecturers

The course instructors include professors and lecturers from the GLU university network (University of Kassel, Berlin School of Economics and Law, School of Labor and Employment Relations of the Penn State University, University of the Witwatersrand, School of Labor and Industrial Relations of the University of the Philippines) in addition to leaders and practitioners from global union federations and international trade union support organisations.

Target participants

Particularly encouraged to apply are trade unionists from Southeast Asia, East Asia, South Asia, Australia, New Zealand, and the Pacific. Labour activists from workers' organisations and labour-oriented civil society organisations in the regions and countries mentioned may also apply.

The medium of instruction is English so applicants are expected to have a good command of the English language in understanding lessons, participating actively in discussions, and writing short presentations.

Certification

Upon successful completion of the training programme and all course requirements, participants will be awarded a certificate of completion by University of the Philippines Diliman (UPD) and GLU.

Course fee

Participants of the programme who will not be awarded a scholarship will be assessed a registration fee of US$700 (Php38,500.00). The registration fee will cover the following items and expenses:

- Course tuition fee
- Modules and learning materials
- Lunch and snacks during in-person sessions for approximately 15 days
- Dinner and cocktails in the opening session and graduation/closing session
- Transportation and lunch for a study visit
- Certificate of completion
- Administrative costs

The registration fee does not include any transportation costs, whether by land, sea, or air, and accommodation costs that the participant may incur for her/his participation in the course. Food expenses outside the course sessions (e.g., breakfast, dinner) will also be borne by the participants. It is also the responsibility of non-Filipino participants to secure an entry visa to the Philippines, if required, and to get a travel and health insurance covering the duration of their stay in the country.

The self-funded participants will be provided a list of options for accommodation within or near the university campus. There are many eating places offering decent food at affordable prices in and around the adjoining areas. The table below provides estimates for the cost of meals and accommodation.

Hotel accommodation	US$55 to 80 per night US$ 370* to 770 per month
Food	US$7 to 10* per meal

Note: The US dollar estimates are based on a conversion rate of Php55 to US$1. Dollar amounts are subject to currency fluctuations.

*This is the monthly (30 days) rate for a small studio unit (single to double occupancy) at Kapit-Balay located in the UPD campus.

This is the monthly (30 days) rate for a regular single/twin-sharing room at the University Hotel located in UPD campus.

Availability of scholarships

A limited number of scholarships will be awarded to selected participants. The scholarship covers the following:

- Course tuition fee
- Food and accommodation for the duration of stay in the Philippines (approximately 25-28 days) to participate in the in-person sessions
- Transportation expenses within Metro Manila and/or within the Philippines (for Filipino participants)
- Roundtrip airfare
- Travel and health insurance for non-Filipino participants

Applicants who are eligible for a scholarship are those who:

1. Come from and/or presently reside in countries in Asia that are not part of the Development Assistance Committee (non-DAC) of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).
2. Are currently affiliated with any of the following: trade unions, other worker organisations, and labor-oriented non-government organisations. Priority will be given to applicants who come from trade unions, are not older than 40 years old, and are holding an elective or appointive position in the union, or who are union organisers, or labour trainers/educators.
3. Have been working in the trade union for at least three years at the time of application and formally commit to work in the union for at least three more years after completing the course.
4. Formally commit in writing that they will meet all of the following course requirements:
 - completion of all the MOOC video lectures
 - attendance in all the online and in-person sessions
 - active participation in the completion and presentation of the results of the group research project (Module 6)
5. Make an own-contribution of US$200 to secure their commitment to complete the course.

An endorsement and/or recommendation by the applicant's trade union/organisation of her/his application to the programme would be beneficial to a scholarship application.

As far as possible, the number of awarded scholarships will be divided equally between eligible female and male applicants.
